

Haringey First World War Peace Forum presents

Subversive Peacemakers

The Conchie, a conscientious objector under arrest, by Arthur W. Gay. The Peace Museum, Bradford

Oh what a lovely war-resistance!

A musical evening of historic opposition to war.

Discover the stories of people courageous enough to resist the First World War's recruitment campaigns and conscription. 100 years ago who opposed the war and why did they do it? What kind of politics, what kind of patriotism, what kinds of faith did they have? Clive Barrett, Chair of the Peace Museum, Bradford, gives an illustrated presentation on the conscientious objectors of the First World War, including some local Haringey stories, interspersed with examples of the music that inspired them. Come and sing along to songs of courage and conscience, with the help of a choir led by Sue Gilmurray.
